Our Mission

The mission of the Pediatric Retinal Research Foundation (PRRF) is to raise awareness of pediatric retinal diseases, drive research, and support the community of affected individuals and their families.

Supported Diseases

Coats' Disease

Familial Exudative Vitreoretinopathy (FEVR)

Norrie Disease

Persistent Fetal Vasculature Syndrome (PFVS)

Retinopathy of Prematurity (ROP)

X-Linked Retinoschisis

Stickler Syndromes

Research Initiatives

We fund basic and translational research at the Pediatric Retinal Research Lab (PRRL) at Oakland University. The Foundation funded the development of the PRRL in 2011. This lab is the first of its kind - a state of the art facility with outstanding researchers solely dedicated to pediatric retinal diseases from bench-top to bedside.

Our latest research update can be found in our Annual Impact Report found at <https://prrf.org/about/#financials>.

Community Outreach Initiatives

We are continually looking to provide answers to critical questions, as well as highlight trends and innovative opportunities on the horizon - all at no cost to families, caregivers, children and supporters.

We support communities through an annual, free Family Connection Conference, Through Our Eyes podcast, workshops connecting families world-wide discussing relevant topics, bi-monthly "Sightlines" eNewsletter featuring articles, research updates, and information curated specifically for the rare pediatric retinal disease community and much more.

Sponsorship Opportunities

The funding opportunities with sponsorship activation benefits outlined below will support research initiatives and ensure community programming remains free for everyone in the PRRF community. Custom and combined packages are available. Please reach out to Stephanie Saville, PRRF Foundation Manager, to discuss your interests and ideas further.
